Tickets £59 (usually £79)

Food and drink is a phenomenal Scottish success story, with aspirations to double in size to a £30 billion industry by 2030. But is it ready for the challenges ahead, as Brexit looms nearer and nearer?

How can it deliver success beyond Brexit – by securing the talent, funding and markets to guarantee continued growth domestically and on the global stage?

Hear from industry leaders including:

Karen Betts, Scotch Whisky Association

Julie Hesketh-Laird, Scottish Salmon Producers Organisation

James Withers, Scotland Food and Drink

Speakers will discuss future-proofing a sector which is worth £15 billion annually to Scotland and employs around 120,000 people directly. And find out how to future-proof your own business against the bumps in the road ahead.

Fees include refreshments, networking brunch, and exclusive access to the Post Conference Reports.
